

Image Permanence Institute Internship in Preservation Research

The Image Permanence Institute is a university-based, nonprofit research laboratory devoted to scientific research in the preservation of visual and other forms of recorded information. IPI was founded in 1985 through the combined efforts and sponsorship of the Rochester Institute of Technology (RIT) and the Society for Imaging Science and Technology (IS&T).

The purpose of the Image Permanence Institute Internship in Preservation Research is to give a student of merit who is committed to the preservation of moving images the opportunity to acquire practical experience in preservation research.

Recipients

2019	Maria Laura Mastantuono
2018	Sandra Kunze
2017	Krystal Brown
2016	Tulta Behm
2015	Jennifer O'Leary
2014	Lauren Alberque
2013	Crosby Buhl
2012	Giorgio Trumpy
2011	Elinor Rose Groom
2010	Tessa Idlewine
2009	Sean Kelly
2008	James Layton
2007	Timothy Wilson
2006	Justin Bonfiglio
